It's Catching--- Now Yell King Has Caught It

Editor's note: We heartily endorse the view set forth by Mr. Golder in the following letter. We are plagued by the same malady that hampers our yell king.

Dear Editor:

Via this column and word of mouth numerous complaints regarding school spirit have been voiced. Among the complaints were several regarding the cheer leaders.

May I say that a little action and fewer complaints might produce a better yell team. My requests for students to try out for yell leading have been discouraging and reflective of the lack of action. Mere wails of dislike produce nothing.

I should like to again extend the invitation for all students, men as well as women, to attend a meeting Tuesday, Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bitterroot Room of the Student Union. Your presence will be an indication of your desire for a better yell team.

Sincerely,
Chippo Golder,
Yell King.

Hillstrand To Handle Polio Drive

Betty Hillstrand, Great Falls, has been appointed chairman of a committee to handle the campus infantile paralysis drive.

All independent and Greek organizations are being contacted in an effort to get donations of 50 cents from each individual member. All dormitories will be canvassed this week by members of the committee and contribution boxes will be placed in Student Union fountain room and book store, and at the telephone booth in Main Hall.

The drive, which opened Monday, will continue until the end of January.

O. S. Warden Will Speak

University To Honor Stone At Special Ceremonies Friday

Many Montana publishers, journalism students and friends of the late Dean Emeritus Arthur L. Stone of the journalism school will attend ceremonies on the Missoula campus Friday, Jan. 18, honoring Stone.

The ceremonies will take the form of dedicating the School of Journalism building. Stone founded the school.

The day's events will open with a special student convocation at 11 a.m. in the Student Union auditorium, to which the public has been invited. President James A. McCain will introduce O. S. Warden as the convocation speaker. Mr. Warden, publisher of the Great Falls Tribune and Leader, was a close personal friend of Dean Stone.

The convocation program also will include a presentation of movies of early field trips of the Press Club and journalism students conducted by Stone.

At noon a luncheon will be given in the journalism school building for visiting publishers, other guests, the staff of the school and journalism students. Approximately 450 alumni of the school have received invitations to attend the events, as have the presidents of other units of the University of Montana and other interested Montanans.

Freshmen Meet Top Man Of Law School

Dean Charles W. Leaphart of the law school was introduced to members of the Law School Association by Lloyd Evans, Missoula, president of the organization, at a meeting Friday. The association is the barrister administrative body.

The dean welcomed new freshmen and gave a short orientation talk in which he outlined the history and operation of the honor system which has been in full use by the law school for more than 30 years. He noted that during this time there have been only two serious infractions, the most recent in the late twenties.

A motion was made and approved that a committee be appointed to examine the feasibility and possible date of a barristers' ball, to be held some time during winter quarter.

Harold Urey Of Atom Fame To Speak Here

MSU's own contribution to atomic research, Dr. Harold Clayton Urey '17, whose work aided in utilization of atomic energy, will return to the university to deliver the fiftieth anniversary charter day address Feb. 18.

Urey, winner of the 1934 Nobel prize, is expected to arrive in Missoula by plane for a two-day stay, Edmund Freeman, chairman of the Public Exercises Committee, announced.

In announcing Urey's acceptance of the invitation to speak, Freeman also explained that the final Charter Day program has not yet been planned.

"I am quite sure, however, that the ceremonies will be scheduled during the morning hours," he added.

Dr. Urey was last on the campus during commencement for 1935 when he received an honorary degree of doctor of science.

Wanted: One Minor Sports Manager—

Applications for minor sports manager are being accepted this week, Jane Jeffers, ASMSU president, announced Monday. Students desirous of becoming manager should make application to Minor Sports Board.

The application should be given to Ann Reese at the Student Union business office.

The minor sports manager will work under Hugh Edwards, director of intra-mural sports for men.

The by-laws of the ASMSU constitution provide that the minor sports manager shall receive the regulation varsity sweater with the four-inch M in a silver circle. The award is made on the recommendation of the minor sports director with the approval of Minor Sports Board.

To be eligible for a minor sports award a student must have the same eligibility standing as for other school activities.

Intra-mural sports should be a great big thing around the campus this year with doubled enrollment.

Sarge Hardy Takes Leave

Charles W. Hardy, superintendent of the Montana State University Press and assistant professor of journalism, was granted a leave of absence Jan. 1 because of ill health.

Claud Lord will succeed Mr. Hardy as foreman of the Journalism Typographical Laboratory and University Press which was started 15 years ago when "Sarge" Hardy first came to the University.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy will make their home in Tucson, Ariz.

Profs Resume Poetry Recitals

Professors John Moore and Baxter Hathaway will resume their weekly poetry recital programs for the winter quarter on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Library 103, with the reading of a cutting from Carl Sandburg's "The People, Yes."

The time for these programs has been changed from Tuesday to Wednesday to avoid conflicts in the university calendar. "The People, Yes," published in 1936, shows the mature Sandburg expressing his faith in the average man.

"Blithe Spirit" Masquer Production For Winter

Workshop Sponsors Conference

The planning and formulating of a religious organization on MSU's campus will be discussed this week at a 3-day conference held Jan. 15, 16 and 17, under the direction of William H. Genne, of Portland, northwest regional secretary for the Student Christian Association.

The workshop in human relations class is sponsoring the conference to which representatives from all churches and any students interested in the organization of such a group are urged to attend.

Genne has had a large range of experience working with religious organizations on the campuses of Oregon, Washington and Idaho. At the first session, scheduled for tonight at 7:30 o'clock in room 307 of the journalism building, he will speak on "Religious Work on Other Campuses." Following his address, students will discuss our local situation. Justine Kuschel, Orchard Homes, Missoula, is the first-night chairman. A program committee will be appointed to present ideas to the final meeting on Thursday night.

The final meeting, open to all students, will be held Thursday in journalism room 307 at 7:30. Genne will talk about relating student life at MSU to student life of the nation through a student Christian association. Thursday definite action will be taken toward the actual organization of the group.

Coward Play Completing Fifth Year in London

Ronald-Bel Stiffler, director of drama, announced today that Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" will be given as a major production by the Masquers this quarter.

Wedded Form "Darby and Joan" Club

Married students of MSU have banded together to form a social club. "Darby and Joan" they call it.

They feel that ordinary MSU social functions leave them out, not being designed for men already caught or women who have their man.

It is "Darby and Joan" because a legendary married couple who lived in perfect wedded bliss for over a hundred years were named "Joan" and "Darby" respectively.

Each month the women foregather to plan a party which their husbands will attend. Sometimes a dance, a splash party or a dance, but most often a dance.

Last quarter they had a couple of successful dances in the Student Union, a dinner dance at the Country Club and a splash party.

"We had a good time," she said.

The "Joans," unsatiated by a single party each month, gather together now and again to play bridge, bowl, or any of the other things that women do when they get in a bunch.

Next Friday night there will be a mixer for all married students at 8:30 in the Bitterroot Room of the Student Union.

The play, which Coward himself called "an improbable farce," has just been released for non-professional production in the United States although it is still playing professionally in London after nearly five years. New York saw it several years ago with Peggy Wood and Clifton Webb in the leading roles.

Mr. Stiffler said that as soon as scripts arrive several copies will be placed on the drama reserve shelf in the library for people trying out for parts to become acquainted with the character. (please see page two)

Annual Meeting To be Attended By Dean Ford

Dean James L. C. Ford will attend the annual meeting of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism at Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 20-30. The question of introducing a new accrediting policy and program for all schools of journalism will be acted upon.

Dean Ford, who is serving his second year as member of the national council on education for journalism, is taking an active part in guiding negotiations for AASDJ.

A survey of journalism education in the United States, which will be done by a curriculum committee will be considered at the meeting.

The Shape of Things to Come

Looking back over last quarter we see that several things in which we were interested did not come to pass, e.g. the University Memorial Chapel and higher wages for students employed by the university and townspeople. These things we shall continue to favor during the coming quarter. We feel they are worth your support too.

Our main attention for the months ahead will be directed toward fostering better "school spirit" and student government. These topics may seem dull to the casual observer but we believe that before the quarter is over many interesting things will come to light as we probe the campus mind, delve into sacred vestiges of tradition, and focus the spotlight of publicity on certain individuals who have too long slumbered 'neath the protective cloak of obscurity. Not a few heretofore little-known boards and committees will be touched upon as will some of the more glamorous and better known.

In the coming months the watchdog will bark more often.

A Modern Tragedy

For a long time the students of MSU have known that Missoula and the university offer almost no entertainment facilities. The situation is not so bad during the week when studies keep the serious student close to the campus but on weekends it becomes accentuated. So far as we know there has been almost nothing done to alleviate this condition. An occasional dance perhaps but nothing that strikes at the root of the evil.

Students, left to find their enjoyment where they can, often end up in one of the many bars about the city. They are about the only place to go to get off the cold streets. Recently, as many of you well know, pressure has been brought on the owners of the bars to refuse admittance to anyone under 21. This pressure is being applied, one tavern keeper alleges, by the parents of MSU students. The result is to limit even further the already scanty "places to go."

What then is to be done?

Obviously entertainment that appeals to the student must be provided either by the student himself or by the university. As the university is no doubt without funds for such a project we suggest that the student body take the matter in hand and work it out to their satisfaction.

An enrollment of 1,600 should produce some people who would be happy to devote their full time to working on this one problem.

The increase in enrollment has resulted in a corresponding increase in student funds. No longer are the associated students in grave financial danger. By wise use of these funds (and this might result in slashing a bit of dough from some of the traditional receivers of the dole) entertainment facilities might be made available.

Under normal conditions we would not advocate the expenditure of student funds for such a venture. We do it reluctantly even now but we know that the poor old university can't spare the cash to see that its students are provided for outside the classroom.

Catchall

Every once in a while we double back and pick up the news of various unglamorous organizations. To the people in the various organizations it makes good reading. To others it's rather dull. To us it's all in a day's work.

Versus

BY ART CLOWES

On a mission of mercy I ventured up to music school the other day. I wandered up and around stairs and in ancient hallways—ancient—so ancient I met Socrates. He looked like he had been out the night before. He still had lipstick on and was holding the fire hose ready to put out any fire—within or external. Upon presenting an inquiring look, he motioned for me to continue on up the creaking stairway. So I labored on.

At long last I reached a modest looking door that had a card on it indicating something about hours. In one of the distant rooms somebody was listening to recordings. Out of a room walked four tired but dignified looking gentlemen. They had evidently been in a conference of some sort. The men disappeared. Then it began. Four pianos cut loose. What a mighty bedlam. Somebody was sawing away on a violin. In the next room somebody else was just sawing. An orchestra battled its way through Mopin's Mayonnaise. Two future metropolitan stars were exercising their throat muscles. One was tremeloing and one was vibratoing. And so was the roof.

In the midst of this the secretary placidly answered the phone. Somebody else gave dictation. Baffled, I left.

On the way back down I met Socrates, plugging his ears with one hand and calmly drinking his poison. The philosopher for the first time in his life had run across something he couldn't analyze. He was calling it quits. For a second he cocked an ear toward the distant roar and then quickly downed the rest. Zeus rest his soul.

Students Flock To Learn Ambulance Chasing

Registration in the law school has been a little more than doubled by winter quarter registration. A breakdown of the figures shows an unprecedented registration of 21 beginning freshmen, ten former students who have returned after serving in the armed forces and one transfer from the University of Idaho who has moved to MSU after service in the Navy and Marine Corps.

Indications are that the law school will exceed its highest pre-war figure by the beginning of fall quarter, 1946.

Lawyer Calls Foresters' Ball Clambake and Preliminary

Lloyd Evans, president of the Law School Association, announced Saturday morning that a Barristers' Ball will be held the latter part of winter quarter under the sponsorship of that organization.

'46 Sentinels To be Given High Schools

The Montana State University Alumni Association will underwrite half the cost of supplying copies of the 1946 Sentinel, student yearbook, to Montana high schools, it was decided at a recent meeting of the executive committee.

The plans for purchase and distribution of the Sentinels was presented by Tannis Brown, Missoula, business manager of the book. The association will ask alumni clubs to buy the book for schools in their towns; where no clubs exist the association will purchase the book or endeavor to have its purchase underwritten by other organizations, including the Missoula Chamber of Commerce.

NOTICE

All students interested in debate or oratory should attend the meeting tonight (Tuesday) at 7:30 in Library 102. MSU plans to have an active debate team this year, participating in the state, northwest and national tournament (at Purdue). Both under- and upper classmen may try out.—Ralph Y. McGinnis, debate coach.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of Phi Sigma, national biological honorary society, on Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 5 p.m. in room 207, Natural Science building. All members are urged to attend.

NOTICE

The Joans (student wives) will play bridge Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the Eloise Knowles Room of the Student Union.

NOTICE

Miss Lucille Speer will lead the Marxist Study Group in discussion of the Communist Manifesto, Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Eloise Knowles Room.

A committee, named by Evans to handle the various features of the event, consists of Don Paddock, Missoula, tickets; Art Myers, Butte, decorations; Marvin Hagen, Poplar, floor and band. Kermit Daniels, Missoula, will have charge of the so-called refreshments.

Asked to comment on plans or motif for the dance a member of the committee said, "We are, as yet, not prepared to say much about our plans. We can, however, go this far: Some pick-up outfit on the campus is throwing a clambake in the next two or three weeks and they seem to think there should be quite a little excitement about it. You can't ever tell what some people will do when things are dull. Someone might even go to their hoe-down. Confidentially though, any party that conifer convent could throw would compare with the barristers' ball like a four-round preliminary compares with the main event."

Phi Sigs Back From the Wars; To Open Soon

"For the first quarter since spring, 1943, Phi Sigma Kappa has active members on the campus and the house will resume normal fraternity functions," Dick Merritt, chapter president, announced Monday.

Those members who have returned from the armed forces this quarter include Frank Denny, Al Solander, Ray Ryan, Dick Merritt, Lou Stevens, "Swede" Hokanson, Chuck Rigg, Art Kimball, Paul Szakash, Art Rockne, Verian McCaully, "Tiger Joe" Mariana and Dick Rigg.

Pledges of the organization are Jack Prothero, a transfer from George Washington University, Earl Dahlstrom, Dawson Oppenheimer, Bernie Eubanks, Sterling Wardell, Doug Wallin and Roy June.

Coffee Hour at Student Union

Java sippers will return to their old haunts in the Student Union lounge tomorrow afternoon from 4:30 to 5:30 when the weekly coffee hour begins its winter quarter sessions.

Everyone, students and faculty alike, are welcome.

The coffee hour was started last spring quarter by a group of students interested in fostering better student-faculty relations. It is financed by money appropriated by Central Board each quarter.

Music Students' Scholarships Renewed

MSU's music scholarship students have had their scholarships renewed for another quarter. Among the students who have returned to continue their studies in the music school is Nancy Critelli, freshman from Billings, who won the scholarship offered by the Kiwanis. She is a cello major.

Betty Lou Mersen, freshman from Glasgow and piano major, was awarded the Rotary scholarship. Janis Hendrickson and Nina Borgen, both freshman piano majors, have also returned. Janis won the Hefte's music prize and Nina, the KGVO scholarship.

Leona Lampi, a senior organ major, received an anonymous scholarship to continue her studies.

The Treasure Room, for valuable historical and archeological materials, is on the third floor of the Journalism Building.

Fourth Estaters Get Inside Dope On Tribune Works

Dean James L. C. Ford of the School of Journalism with four senior students made a three-day visit to Great Falls Jan. 9 to 13 to study the operations of the Great Falls Tribune.

With each department head of the Tribune taking at least an hour to explain the fundamentals of his division, the students were given the inside dope on the news, editorial, circulation, advertising, business, job printing and office supply departments.

Each of the four students accompanied a Tribune reporter and an ad solicitor on their beats.

The group was entertained at a luncheon by Alex F. Warden, and at dinner Thursday and Saturday nights by Harry Hillstrand, operator of the Electric City Printing Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cole, parents of Marjorie Cole, senior in the School of Journalism, entertained the visitors at a luncheon Thursday.

The Great Falls Leader, The Montana Farmer and the Electric City Printing Company were also inspected.

Meet, Mingle at Mixer

New and old students will meet and mingle at a matinee mixer from 4 to 6 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Student Union Gold Room. An admission of 10 cents will be charged.

NEW CORAL DISPLAYS

On display in the geology department museum are coral specimens sent to the university by Dr. George M. McCole of Great Falls. The six specimen boxes were sent to Capt. Myrick W. Pullen Jr.

Martell Heads News Service

Earl Martell, new editor of the News Service and a graduate of the School of Journalism in 1939, will serve as instructor this quarter on the journalism staff assisting in laboratory sections of reporting class.

Prior to entering the Army, where he was a sergeant at Fort Douglas, Martell was state health reporter on the Montana Record-Herald for two years in Helena. Before that he served as Missoula correspondent for the Spokane Spokesman-Review for three years.

NOTICE

Wives of students will meet Thursday, January 17, in the Bitterroot Room of the Student Union at 7:30 p.m. All wives new to University this year are particularly welcome and each old member will be expected to bring one new member.

For names and addresses, please contact Mrs. Mary Lou Hoag, 6286.

The value of equipment and buildings at MSU is approximately three and one quarter million dollars.

Sigma Nu Pledges Seven

The following men have been pledged to Sigma Nu fraternity since the last issue of the Kaimin: Bill Preuninger, Missoula; Jim DeGuire, Missoula; Ed Gallagher, Anaconda; Carl Knight, Butte; C. B. Smith, Austin, Texas; Dewitt Keeler, Evanston, Ill., and Jerry Bates, Hamilton.

PHOTOGRAPHERS WANTED!

All students with photographic experience who would care to work on the golden anniversary edition of the Sentinel are urged to contact Max Sugg, photo editor, or Cyrille Van Duser, adviser, at the Student Union.

There will be an important photo staff meeting Tuesday, Jan. 15, at 5 o'clock. All members or potential members are urged to attend.

Drum Lands Promotion Job For Chesterfield

Alice Drum, Miles City, was recently appointed Chesterfield promotion agent on the campus by the Campus Merchandising Bureau.

As a campus representative for the product, Miss Drum will promote the sale of Chesterfield cigarettes through photography, posters, sampling at school events and surveys.

The Campus Merchandising Bureau employs 400 representatives on 200 American campuses to do promotion work. These representatives are appointed because recent surveys proved personal contacts in Chesterfield promotion more effective than national advertising.

BY DON WESTON

UCLA's over-anxiousness in the present "super-rush" for 1946 football talent is threatening to explode into a Pacific Coast Conference scandal.

Whether or not the present UCLA case comes to a head is being closely watched by other conference members, who have been taking a very liberal interpretation of the PCC "rushing" rules.

The whole UCLA mess centers around an outstanding colored athlete, Buddy Young, who was the star of the 1945 Fleet City football squad that swamped "Rose Bowling" Southern Cal, 26 to 0.

If Young transfers from the University of Illinois, where he attended one year before joining the Navy, conference officials are promising an investigation.

Young has been quoted as saying that he has been promised a good job upon graduation from UCLA, as well as a good deal while attending the California school. It is well known that in recent months he has been widely feted by Kenny Washington, former UCLA All-American halfback, and other prominent Negro alums of UCLA.

—M—

Why is Montana interested in the Young case in far-off UCLA?

First, because the Grizzlies are scheduled to play the Bruins next fall, and Buddy Young's skill could be an important factor in that game.

Second, because Montana as a member of the Pacific Coast Conference, must abide by the same PCC "rushing" and eligibility rules as the UCLAans.

If Young enters UCLA upon his discharge and nothing comes of it in the way of reprimanding UCLA, the already furious scramble for athletes now in progress will be even intensified.

—M—

The PCC has extensive rules regulating this "rushing" of athletes by member schools.

Close adherence of all PCC rulings by Montana, because of a fear of being dropped from the conference, and a "not-so-close" attitude of the larger schools, has always handicapped the Grizzlies.

Following are the rules that PCC members must follow in "rushing" athletes.

Alumni may interview prospective students, but may not engage in persistent, repeated efforts to induce students with athletic ability to attend a particular institution. They may not entertain prospective students who are athletes with banquets, parties, outings, visits to the college campus, etc. Alumni may not offer or promise to prospective student-athletes any inducement of financial value, such as employment, loans, tuition or post-graduation jobs, for attending a certain institution.

Alumni may interview prospective student-athletes only on the campus of the member institution and may not initiate correspondence with such athletes, though they may answer correspondence from such athletes.

—M—

Coaches may interview prospective student-athletes only within the limits of the coach's own campus, they may not initiate correspondence, but may respond to letters of inquiry.

Coaches may not visit the campus of any high school except to make an address upon invitation, to officiate in an athletic event, or when his presence is necessitated by participation of his athletic teams in some contest.

The same rules apply to athletic directors.

—M—

University representatives, including coaches, field agents, and other athletic officials, may entertain high school athletes on the university campus if the athletes are present on the campus to compete in an interscholastic meet, or tournament.

They may entertain these groups of high school students, provided they are chosen on the basis of some other interest than athletics. They may furnish complimentary admission to athletic events, ordinary meals and lodgings to such groups.

—M—

The T is coming to Montana. Coach Doug Fessenden, upon his return Saturday, announced that the Grizzlies will adopt the famed T formation next fall. He said, "A football team can score faster with the T, and I have learned a great deal about it the past two years of Army coaching. It is not the whole answer to a successful offense, but it's a great offense. We will use the single wingback to supplement the T, when bad weather makes it impossible to use the speed of the T."

—M—

Prize upset of 1946 basketball came in Laramie, Wyo., last Saturday night, when the vaunted Wyoming Cowboys, the nation's No. 1 team, were slapped by a 45-to-31 defeat at the hands of the Utah Redskins.

—M—

The cowboys were handicapped by the absence of Ken Sailors, all-American guard, who was in Far-ragut, Idaho, receiving his final discharge from the Navy.

—M—

This Friday and Saturday the Grizzlies journey to Cheney, Wash. to meet the Eastern Washington College of Education.

This will be the second meeting with the Savages this season. The EWC outfit, playing here during Christmas recess, twice grabbed what seemed to be sure Montana victories out of the fire in the closing minutes. The second game of the earlier series had to be decided by an overtime, after the final gun had caught the score tied at 47 to 47.

—M—

The Grizzlies' next home games will be Jan. 25 and 26 against Gonzaga. Last year, the Bulldogs won three of four from the Montanans.—D.W.

Montana Edges Whitman 37-35 Splitting Walla Walla Series

Dahlbergers Lose Opener 45 to 40 in Rough "Palouse" Battle; Walla Walla Air Base Outclasses Bus-Weary Bruins

BY DICK CONKLIN AND DON WESTON

Montana's Grizzlies took a week-end trip to the "Palouse Country" and brought back with them their first win in seven starts.

For the first time since the defeat of the Bobcats during the December tournament here, victory bell in Main Hall tolled forth with glad tidings: Montana defeated Whitman, 37 to 35, Saturday night.

The final win, however, was somewhat dulled by two earlier defeats on the same trip. Whitman had beaten them 45 to 40 Friday night; the Walla Walla Air Base, 57 to 42, Thursday.

Walla Walla Air Base

After the long Thursday bus ride, the Montanans were definitely outclassed by the fast-working Airmen. Bourlands' 15 points made him top man for the winners; Rocheleau was the No. 1 Grizzly, with 15 points.

The game was never in doubt, though Coach Dahlberg tried in vain to find a clicking combination. Fifteen Grizzlies saw action in the game.

First Whitman Game

Friday night's game was the roughest the Grizzlies have encountered all season. Observers and players declare that the only thing that enabled one to distinguish whether a football or basketball game was being played was the shape of the ball. Complaints on the officiating from both sides rang loud and long.

Out of the confusion of countless called and uncalled fouls, Montana grabbed a half-time lead of 21 to 15. Then that "last-half jinx" caught up to the Grizzlies again; Whitman pulled ahead.

During the final frame, Hobbs and Haupt seemed to score at will, while the Montana lads could not keep control of the ball.

Hobbs was high scorer for Whitman with 16 tallies, Haupt was No. 2 with 14.

Marinkovich Promising

Danny Marinkovich, who until this time, had not been a regular on the Dahlberg crew, took Grizzly scoring honors with 12 points. Out of the shuffle of talent that the coach tried on the trip, "Marink" emerged as one of "Jiggs'" most promising players.

Danny scored five points against the Air Base the previous night, and four in the final game with Whitman.

Second Whitman Game

The finale of the two-game Whitman series left a better taste in Grizzly mouths and a promise of victories to come.

The battle was nip and tuck all of the way, Montana leading 22 to 21 at halftime. Whitman tied the game at 35 all, with 20 seconds remaining, the newcomer, Jack McMasters, loosed a "prayer-heave" that spelled a Montana victory.

Fifteen points garnered from the free throw line provided the margin of triumph for the Grizzlies. Ralph Peterson was the Montanans' best scorer with nine points. Hobbs repeated his Friday night shooting display to head the Whitman attack with 10.
